The amount of water sounds reasonable. The pool was around half full by my estimate (for what that's worth) and the total volume the pool will hold is somewhere between 90,000 & 100,000 gallons.

Hope Nate got home and warm quickly!

I will forward update to Ed so he has a feel. That seems like a lot of water, but I don't have a frame of reference. Nate said he doesn't even remember getting out of the pool...it was so cold.

He's a character...

Thanks for the advice and we will take it seriously. I think we are out of the woods for now with the pool filled but will continue to need some kind of monitor for the future. Keep us posted.

I would be careful about the camera's. As a property manager I just recently purchased camera's for one of complexes at 650 dollars for 6 camera's. Although real time images look really good when you go back to replay a lot of times the playback is grainy and hard to get really good image quality on identifying the individual. In order to have a camera to have the quality you will need to positively ID someone, you will be paying more than $150. From experience also hard to get police to actually act unless you have A grade quality images and %100 percent positive on the ID. Camera's are more a deterrent than anything so you would actually want the camera's visible. I had a few illegal incidents on my property and I don't mean to discourage anyone but the police were not even interested in watching the playback. I would recommend you buy a few fair quality ones along with a lockbox up high to protect and post signs stating that the place is under surveillance and use for deterrence, otherwise do not bother.

Sincerely

Pool is filled and locked up. I can't think of what else the vandals could do but after Monday we will be using Steve's camera and should have internet at that time. Moving forward!!!

This is what I recall: the BOD did not authorized purchase of cameras. In fact, the Lynnwood PD doesn't recommend it unless you can ensure that it cannot be disturbed. (This was my offering at the BOD meeting when the topic was brought up. We discussed several would be needed to cover the whole pool area.) Our BOD determined that any useable location can also be vandalized and it would not serve the purpose a camera would intend to do. Those that would pull the hose and waste AC resources would also destroy or steal a camera. Perhaps there is a different opinion now.

where is the security camera? we authorized getting one. its 150 at walmart or costco with 2 cameras we need thiis immediately. I will bring one up to loan until you buy one. Obviously we know one of several people who are doing this and we need to put this up asap to capture this vandalism and prosecute it.

Pool Committee...FYI...

Please keep an eye on our pool. Hopefully Harry and "the boys" will have the cover on tomorrow to help prevent evaporation. This has been a 2 day struggle. I am so disappointed in the folks who may be doing this. We don't know who, at this point, but are taking some steps to prevent it in the future.

Sometime in the past 2 hours, the hose was pulled back onto the deck again and loosened at the hose bib as well. Any suggestions how to stop this nonsense?

I believe that the pool committee started filling the pool sometime Saturday.

Sunday afternoon, I walked over to see how it was going and found that the hose had been pulled back out of the pool onto the deck and its output was simply running across the deck and down a drain. Later, a neighbor asked if we were filling the pool because she heard water running when she walked her dog before church. This indicates that the water was going down the drain all day and perhaps overnight.

I rerouted the hose under the fence so it was less obvious and turned the water back on into the pool.

Two hours later, I checked back and the water had been turned off at the hydrant. Harry was with me. We turned the water back on again.

We're still operating properly this morning.

I wanted to make you aware that someone is tampering with our efforts and literally flushing our water and money down the drain. It really disturbs me that people are sabotaging our efforts.
